ABOUT CAMS

The Chinese American Medical Society (CAMS) is a non-profit, charitable, educational, and scientific organization committed to education and community service. Established in 1964, it is the oldest and now one of the largest and most successful national Chinese American medical societies in North America with regional chapters in Boston and Albany and over 1,300 members. The officers and the trustees of the governing board are made of up leading physicians in the New York metropolitan area who volunteer their services to CAMS. Membership is open to all physicians, dentists, medical students, medical scientists and allied health professionals of Chinese descent, as well as other allied medical professionals those that have been dedicated to serving the Chinese community.

MISSION AND GOALS

It is the mission of CAMS to improve the health status of Chinese Americans and to promote excellence in health care for all through the mobilization of health care professionals.

The purposes & objectives of the Society are as follows:

1. To eliminate health disparities of Chinese Americans and other underserved populations.
2. To advance medical knowledge through education, scientific research, scholarship, and philanthropy with emphasis on aspects unique to Chinese Americans.
3. To promote the association of and to advocate for medical professionals of Chinese descent and others devoted to like purposes.

ABOUT THE ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Each year CAMS holds an annual scientific conference during the first week of November. The annual conference offers a venue for medical professionals to gather and learn about and discuss some of the most important issues in health care affecting Chinese Americans. The conference provides a forum for those that treat Chinese American patients to participate in a scholarly exchange of important medical advancements in their field as well as discuss barriers to care for Chinese American patients.

Each year we attract approximately 250 members to the annual conference. Approximately 61% of attendees are physicians, 15% are allied health professionals and 24% are physicians-in-training.

This year's symposium theme will be Advancing the Health Care of Women in 2017. Please check our website <http://camsociety.org> for updates through the year.
